THAW ELUDES HIS PURSUERS AFTER BOLTING ASYLUM

Spends Night at Pittsfield Hotel and Then Disappears Again.

WILL DISSIPATE, IS BELIEF

Alibi Who Testified Against the Pittsfield Man Believes He Will Return to Old Vice; Mattewan Asylum Head Recognizes Glynn.

By United Press.
PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 18.—Harry K. Thaw eluded the police here early today after staying all night at the Lanox Hotel, but his identification was positive, and local policemen started after him and his companion, who were riding in a big black car.

Thaw was identified by the proprietor of the hotel, Richard A. Stanley, a former selectman. The man whom Stanley identified as Thaw arrived at the Lanox at 5:30 last evening. Stanley's suspicions were aroused when a man, who registered as "Dr. Holden of New York," entered the hotel and had supper. Later he made arrangements for a room for himself and "Chauffeur." The chauffeur registered as P. H. Lewis of New York, and he is the man Stanley swears is Thaw.

The alleged Thaw and his companion retired to their rooms immediately after entering the hotel together and were not seen until 6 o'clock this morning, when they left in the automobile recognized as the big car in which Thaw left the asylum.

The man "Lewis" who was supposed to be Thaw, is the chauffeur of Dr. W. H. Holden of New York. Dr. Holden is an automobile tour, and information received from his office in New York today is to the effect that he was at Saratoga yesterday. It is said that he sent a telegram from that city to his office on Sunday afternoon.

This afternoon Stanley declared he is positive that the man who spent last night at his hotel was Thaw.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Harry K. Thaw will return to the vice with which he was addicted before being confined at Mattewan asylum, according to Dr. Charles F. MacDonald, who testified as a state expert witness at the Thaw habeas corpus trial at White Plains in 1912.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Doctor MacDonald today, "but that Thaw will return to the vice he was addicted to before he was committed to give up upon being admitted to Mattewan. He is incurably insane, and as soon as he takes a drink of whiskey or wine he will become irresponsible. It is entirely likely that he will become afflicted with the delirium that sometimes is pursuing him, and in such state, may attack that person."

ALBANY, Aug. 18.—State Superintendent of Prisons John B. Riley, friend of Governor Sulzer, today recognized Lieutenant Governor Martin H. Glynn as a state executive, when he telegraphed Glynn from Pittsfield, telling him of the Thaw escape.

Dr. R. F. E. Klein, superintendent of Mattewan, called Glynn on the telephone, and related the facts connected with Thaw's escape.

A sweeping investigation of the escape of Harry Kendall Thaw was begun by Judge Marchant on the morning of the escape, when he ordered today by Superintendent of Prisons Riley. In addition, Riley planned to leave here this afternoon at 3 o'clock for the asylum, where he will take charge of the investigation. A report that Thaw secured his freedom through bribery will be probed.

PITTSFIELD, Aug. 18.—If Harry Thaw returns to Pittsfield, he will be warmly received. Not only will he have hosts of friends to greet him, but it is believed that not a policeman or detective in the city would place him under arrest or assist the New York authorities in recapturing him.

This was indicated this morning by Detective Roger O'Mara and Chief of Detectives Charles Donnelly, who declared they think Thaw means that he would have been freed from the asylum long ago had it not been for the fact that he was wealthy.

The tears and fears of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw are regarded by Thaw's friends as an effort on the actress' part to gain additional notoriety.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 18.—Attorney General Swift when questioned this morning regarding the extradition of Thaw, declared that he knew of no precedent for the case.

"It looks to me as though it would be handled in a practical manner," he said. "If the authorities of this state capture Thaw, they could take him to the state line and turn him over to the New York officials."

Swift declared that if New York state was consulted in regard to the Thaw extradition, Martin H. Glynn would be recognized as state executive.

FOTOKKREPSHE, N. Y., August 8. Warrants were issued this afternoon by Judge Marchant on the arrest of the five men believed to have aided in the escape of Harry K. Thaw. The names, which were taken from the register of the Holland House, are those of Thomas Flood, Eugene Duffy, Roger Thompson, son, Richard O'Keefe and Richard J. Ball.

NEW YORK, August 18.—When Mrs. Mary Thaw was seen at the Cortina Hotel this morning she was in excellent spirits. She had just received a telegram.

"Is it from Harry?" she was asked. "I didn't say so," she replied, and smiled.

CRAZED PRISONER TRIES TO HANG HIMSELF IN LOCKUP

Appeals to Police for Protection from "Devils" After Swimming Across the Yough.

Claiming to be pursued by devils trying to capture his soul and send it to perdition, William Mull, who says he is a son of William Mull, a Washington, Pa. policeman, swam across the Yough river in his clothes last night and rushed into City Hall, crying for protection.

Patrolman Barnes placed him in a cell. Shortly after midnight, the policeman was attracted by the crazed man's cries. In the cell he found Mull had twisted his belt about one of the cell bars and was trying to strangle himself.

A message was sent to Washington this morning to make inquiries about Mull's story.

WILL DISCUSS PAYING

Council and Railroad Officials to Consider Seventh Street Paying.

The paying question, which has agitated residents of Seventh street, West Side, for several months, will be taken up tomorrow afternoon, when a special meeting of council will be held for the purpose of discussing the matter with representatives of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad.

Clerk A. O. Bixler received word from Pittsburgh today that Iron Estate Agent J. C. Cronin and Assistant Chief Engineer L. W. Hoote will be here for the purpose of conferring with council. Notices of the meeting will be sent out today.

The only difficulty that stands in the way of having the work done, it is said, is the matter of the street grade. Borough Engineer C. P. Hirt and the street committee inspected the streets a few days ago, and are prepared to offer a solution of the question to council at the next regular meeting. In the meantime, the railroad officials hope to reach an agreement with the councilmen, and will make arrangements to proceed with the work.

RAPID PROGRESS IS MADE ON WEST PENN LINE INTO LATROBE

Operating Cars Now to Whitney, and Will Reach Trauger Oct. 1.

BRIDGE WORK CAUSES A DELAY

Steel Has Been Delivered at Hedges and Only One Span Remains to be Placed; Will Reach Mt. Pleasant Township High School September 1.

Rapid progress is being made on the West Penn's extension from Hedges to Latrobe. The steel for the bridge at Hedges has been delivered and a portion of the structure erected. When the remaining 130-foot span over the railroad tracks is placed, it will be possible to ballast the mile of track which has already been laid. The company will have cars running to the Mount Pleasant township high school by September 1, and to Trauger by October 1, in the opinion of officials who have the work in charge.

Virtually all of the grading has been completed and much of the track is down. A bridge remains to be placed at Hedges. Work on it has not yet started.

At the Latrobe end of the line, 1.6 miles of track are already in operation. Cars are now running from Latrobe to Whitney, by way of Bagdad. Once the bridges and a short trestle are placed, the line will be complete. It is possible that cars will be running into Latrobe before the first of the year.

Officials are not overconfident, however, of completing the line before early in the spring. The weather is not to have considerable bearing on the matter.

One of the directors stated this morning that it is doubtful if the meeting can be held. As W. W. Smith left the city this morning for a long automobile trip, a full board will not be available tonight.

The women wear a modified helmet hat, with the insignia of the department on the front, a long coat and waistcoat like a man's and a skirt with just the hint of a slit at the hem to be in the prevailing style. FATE OF THE GRIZZLY.

The Tenderfoot Was Anxious to Get the Full Particulars.

An Idaho guide whose services were retained by some wealthy young easterners desirous of hunting in the northwest evidently took them to be the greenest of tenderfoots, since he undertook to charm them with a recital something as follows:

"It was my first grizzly, so I was mighty proud to kill him in a hand struggle. We started to fight about sunrise. When he finally gave up the ghost the sun was going down."

At this point the guide paused to note the effect of his story. Not a word was said by the easterners, so the guide added very slowly, "The second time."

"I gather, then," said one young gentleman, a dapper little Bostonian, "that it required a period of two days to enable you to dispose of that grizzly."

"Two days and a night," said the guide, with a grin. "That grizzly died mighty hard."

"Choked to death?" asked the Bostonian.

"Yes, sir," said the guide.

"Pardon me," continued the Bostonian, "but what did you try to get him to swallow?"—Lippincott's.

In London Clubland.

In some of the ultra exclusive clubs, says the London Tatler, it is a serious breach of etiquette for one member to speak to another without obtaining a ceremonious introduction beforehand.

A painful case has just occurred in a certain old established and extremely respectable Pall Mall caravansary. It appears that a newly joined member in cautious defiance of custom ventured the other afternoon to make a remark about the weather to a gentleman with whom he was not personally acquainted.

The recipient of this outburst glared steadily at its perpetrator.

"Did you presume to address me, sir?" he demanded, with an awful frown.

"Yes, I did," was the defiant reply. "I said it was a fine day."

The other digested the observation thoughtfully. Then, after an impressive pause, he turned to his bold exponent. "Well, pray don't let it occur again," he remarked as he buried himself once more in his paper.

Big Fire in Chicago.

Homesites Endangered by $500,000 Blaze in Linseed Oil Plant.

By United Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Fire that enveloped the big plant of the Midland Linseed Oil Company in flames today caused a loss of $500,000 before noon. A score of fire companies are trying to get the flames under control.

Twelve oil tanks containing 400 gallons each, exploded, sending showers of blazing oil over 10 residences and a string of eight houses, which caught fire. Eight firemen were overcome by smoke one-half hour after the fire began, and exploding oil tanks and thick smoke made the work of the fire fighters difficult.

THE white hair and wrinkled faces of our busy men and women tell of doubt, fear and anxiety—more than disease or age. Worry plays havoc with the nervous system—so that digestion is ruined and sleep banished. What oil is to the friction of the delicate parts of an engine—is to the delicate organs of the body. It's a tonic and body builder—because it stimulates the liver to vigorous action, assists the stomach to assimilate food—thus enriching the blood, and the nerves and heart in turn are fed on pure rich blood. No wonder the cure of nervous troubles for forty years "Golden Medical Discovery" in liquid form has given great satisfaction as a tonic and blood maker.

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Company Postpones Placing of Contracts for Chile Ore Fleet.

Vice President Henry S. Snyder, of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, has recently returned to New York after a visit to Scotland where he was conducting negotiations with British shipbuilders for the placing of contracts for the fleet of 16 vessels which the Bethlehem Steel Corporation plans to build to carry its ore from the Tinto mines, near Coquimbó, Chile, to this country.

Mr. Snyder has returned, however, without the contracts having been placed and it is expected that the directors of the Bethlehem company have decided to postpone the building of these ships for a while.

Earnings of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation for the first six months of 1913 are admitted by Mr. Snyder to have been "very satisfactory." It is understood that Bethlehem's net profits after interest and other charges, were fully 25% larger than those for the corresponding period of 1912. Within a little more than half a mile, the Bethlehem Steel Corporation has made several important additions to its holdings.

First, there was the acquisition of the Chile ore properties estimated to contain at least 100,000,000 tons of high grade low phosphorus ore. This was followed by the announcement that the Tinto Forge Company has been purchased by the Bethlehem company for $500,000 and later in the spring of this year, the Fore River Shipbuilding Company of Quincy, Mass., was secured by purchase.

These extensions are in line with the policy of Mr. Schwab, who has declared repeatedly, the last time during his evidence in the United States Steel Corporation dissolution suit, that it was his ambition to have the plants of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation turning out as complete a line of products as the United States Steel Corporation's, eventually.

ONE OF THE COMING BIG EVENTS IN THIS SECTION OF THE STATE

TYPICAL SCENE AT A REDPATH CHAUTAUQUA

THE forthcoming Chautauqua which is to be held here will be one of the big events of the season in this section of the state. The above photograph illustrates a typical crowd at one of the Redpath Chautauquas. There are today nearly 1,200 Chautauquas in the United States and Canada. In fact, the Chautauqua has become one of America's great institutions and the idea has already spread to England and Japan. In 1872 there was not a Chautauqua in the world. In 1873 Bishop John H. Vincent and Lewis Miller inaugurated at the spot now called Chautauqua, N. Y., the original institution. Today Chautauqua, N. Y., is the summer center for 10,000 people, and its land, buildings and equipment represent a cost of millions.

But, although thousands of people go annually to Chautauqua, N. Y., from all parts of the United States, the great mass of American people would never get to a Chautauqua if they had to travel far from home. The recognition of this fact brought about the decision to make Chautauquas to the people everywhere. The movement a few years ago began to spread rapidly. Today there are operated from the Redpath headquarters in Iowa, Kansas City and Chicago nearly 600 Chautauquas. Only the best talent is engaged, as high as $15,000 having been paid by the Redpath for a single attraction for the Chautauqua season. Every year the number of Chautauquas grows, and there are more requests annually from towns wishing to be Chautauqua centers than can possibly be granted.

Congressman Owns a Large Plot of

Make Vacation a Pleasure Place.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Aug. 17.—With many of the people of this town and vicinity the magnificent scenery of the Indian Creek Valley, and the pleasure and comfort of the "Hutch-Turn" camp at Roaring Run, Champion post-office, will be a pleasant memory for a year until vacation season comes on once more. The Presbyterian people have an ideal camping spot, with wood and water and mountain magnificence of view on every hand, and a large number have enjoyed camp life there this season.

The first group to dwell in the commodious camp, which is really of such nature as to be a permanent one, has been a party under the leadership of Miss Maude A. Loucks, supervising teacher in the Pittsburgh school building, and Miss Ida M. Kane, a resident and former teacher who is now enjoying her vacation from a position as teacher in the Bradford schools to which she will return strengthened for her work by her mountain camp experience.

The big bungalow with its commodious porch and the tents and amusements arranged for on the grounds, prove together a drawing attraction to all who have visited this camping spot, which is undoubtedly the finest in Western Pennsylvania. It was started by the Boys' Bible Class and now the class and congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of Scottdale own a large acreage which they will hold as a permanent camping ground.

Among those who were numbered among the campers or visitors were Rev. and Mrs. James H. Hutchison and sons, James and Harold; Mrs. M. J. Hayes and daughter, Ruth; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lowe and daughters, Zola and Margaret; Mrs. H. C. Hays and daughter, Mildred; Mrs. M. H. Bailey and daughters, Mrs. Russell Hockenbury and Miss Mary Bailey; Mrs. Kate Livingston and niece, Ruth and Carrie Mae Frey; Misses Cora Collier and Annie Dick, Anna Kate Shupe, Sophie Price, Charlotte Kelly, Helen Boerwirth, Edith Patton, Lucille Reynolds, Yerna Elcher, Ruth Gallenino and chaperones, Miss Maude A. Loucks and Miss Ida M. Kane. On Saturday day were Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Kelly and daughter, Mary Jane; Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Elcher, Charles and Grace Elcher; Theresa Brennan, Mrs. E. C. Bower, Mrs. H. J. Springer and niece, Mary; C. H. Loucks, A. H. Loucks, Miss Winifred Loucks, Miss Loucks, Mrs. Sampson Wiley and daughters, Ruth and Janet; Miss Mary Law, all of Scottdale, and Miss Ruth Kuhns of Greensburg.

All expressed themselves as much delighted with the camp and pronounced Indian Creek Valley and Roaring Run the ideal locality in a back to nature.

PLAN TO LIFT RECEIVERSHIP OF KUHN INTEREST SEPT. 1

Condition of American Water Works & Guarantee Company More Than Satisfactory.

PHILADELPHIA, August 18.—Under the leadership of Edmund C. Converse, prominent financiers both here and abroad are effecting plans for the complete reorganization of the American Water Works & Guarantee Company, which entered into a voluntary receivership following the closing of the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh and the subsequent suspension of all the J. S. & W. S. Kuhn interests.

The present movement, it was said by an official of the Kuhn firm, will result in the lifting of the receivership of the American Water Works & Guarantee Company by September 1.

The report that serious difficulties had arisen between the Pittsburgh stockholders and a majority of the holders of stock of the company, approximately $3,000,000 in value, was positively denied by officials. On the contrary, J. L. McClelland and William G. Audenrod, who represent the Pittsburgh office, have been engaged during the past week in effecting the organization of a protective committee, representing all interests involved in the receivership, their efforts culminating on Thursday last in a meeting in this city between Mr. McClelland and J. L. McClelland and J. L. McClelland.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Lanoy-Meyer agreed not only to serve upon the committee but, it is said, to be one of the directors of the reorganized concern. With his name are associated in the matter the names of several leading foreign bankers, among whom is that of Theodore Pechon of Paris. Other members of the board will be Edmund C. Converse, Albert H. Wilkin of this city, Charles I. Brooker and Charles H. Scott, who will represent the English stockholders. To these will be added a leading financier of Chicago, who will complete the revised board of directors, which will also include, probably, the name of J. L. McClelland.

Upon the announcement of the receivership it is understood that J. L. C. Converse was immediately interested in effecting a protective committee of stockholders of the American Water Works Company, which is capitalized at upward of $25,000,000 and controls more than $0 subsidiary enterprises, among the most important of which is the West Penn Traction Company.

OLD BLUE AND BLACK.

The young girl's charming frock which is illustrated above is an excellent model for this season of the year, looking equally well when made of cotton or light weight woolen material. Being conservative in design it may be safely followed for fall wardrobes without fear of being "out of date." Developed in old blue casimere the frock about the neck would be of black satin with fine pleated folds of silk in the color of the gown. The girlish and sleeve bands are also of the satin. The skirt is slightly shirred about the waist and again at the bottom on the side.

Applies to Elective Officers of Second Class Cities

ALSO TO JUDICIARY NOMINEES

Full Text of the New Law Governing the Nomination and Election of Judges of All Courts of Record.

AN ACT
To regulate nominations and elections for all elective officers of the second class and all offices of judges of all courts of record, providing for non-partisan nominations and elections for said offices; establishing certain existing methods of nomination in such cases and of nomination for political parties or organizations at elections with respect to said offices; imposing certain duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, county commissioners, and election officers and clerks; and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions herein, and the punishment of certain offenses.

Non-Partisan Nominations and Elections.
Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That hereafter all candidates for any elective office of the second class, or for the office of judge of any court of record, whether such office be filled by the vote of the electors of the State at large or by the electors of any county or judicial district in the State, shall be nominated in accordance with the provisions of this act, and in no other manner. The term "office of judge" when used in this act, shall mean the office of judge of any court of record.

Section 2. Candidates for any office within the provisions of this act, to be filled at any election, shall be nominated in the manner hereinafter provided, at the regular primary provided by law for the nomination of candidates for other offices to be filled at such election; and all laws relating to such primaries shall continue to be in force and to be applicable to the said offices in so far as may be consistent with the provisions of this act. No nomination by any political party or organization for any office shall hereafter be made under any law of this Commonwealth.

Primary Ballot.
Section 2. Official primary ballots, hereinafter called "non-partisan primary ballots," for the said offices, shall be prepared for the primary by the county commissioners, and no other ballots for such offices shall be used thereat. These non-partisan primary ballots shall be printed on white paper of uniform quality, and shall be uniform in size, style of printing, and general appearance, and but one form of non-partisan primary ballot shall be provided for each polling place. The non-partisan primary ballot shall be substantially in the following form:

Form.
NON-PARTISAN PRIMARY BALLOT
..... District, Ward,
..... City of County of
..... State of Pennsylvania.
Primary held on the day of 1913.
Make a cross (X) in the square to the right of each candidate for whom you wish to vote.
If you desire to vote for a person whose name is not on the ballot, write or paste his name in the blank space provided for that purpose.
Judge of the Supreme Court.
(Vote for.....)

John Roe,
Richard Roe,
John Miles,
Under each group of names of candidates shall be printed blank spaces, defined by light lines or ruled lines, eight of an inch apart, equal in number to the number of candidates for whom an elector would be entitled to vote for such office at the ensuing election.

Names in Alphabetical Order.
On the back of such ballot shall be printed, in prominent type the words "OFFICIAL NON-PARTISAN PRIMARY BALLOT," and there shall also appear on the back of such ballot the facsimile signatures of the county commissioners of the county. The ballot shall vary in form only as the names of districts, offices, or candidates, or the provisions of this act may require. The names of the candidates shall appear on the official non-partisan primary ballots in alphabetical order, under the respective offices. Opposite or under the name of each candidate who is to be voted for by the electors of more than one county shall be printed the name of the county in which such candidate resides; and opposite or under the name of each candidate who is to be voted for by the electors of an entire county shall be printed the name of the township, borough, or ward and city, as the case may be, in which such candidate resides.

Designation of Choice.
The voter may designate his choice as indicated by the instructions shown on the form of ballot set forth. He may vote for no greater number of persons for nomination to any office than the number for which he could vote at the succeeding election for the same office. If he shall vote for a greater number of persons for nomination to any office than he would have a right to vote for at the ensuing election for the same office, or if for any reason it be impossible to determine his choice for any office, his ballot shall not be counted for such office but the rest of his ballot if properly marked shall be counted. No ballot shall be rejected for any technical error which does not render it impossible to determine the voter's choice.

Nomination Petitions.
Section 4. The names of all candidates for nomination at any primary, for any of said offices, shall be printed upon the official non-partisan primary ballot at such primary, upon the filing of nomination petitions in their behalf, signed by qualified electors of the State, or of the political district or division, as the case may be, within which the nomination is to be made, and the filing of affidavits by the candidates as provided by this act; and the names of no candidate for any of said offices shall be printed upon any official non-partisan primary ballot to be used at any primary unless such nomination petitions shall have been filed, and unless such candidates shall have filed affidavits as hereinafter provided. The petitions and affidavits herein required shall contain no reference to any political party or policy; and party membership shall not be necessary to qualify any person to be a candidate, or to be a signer of a nomination petition, within the provisions of this act.

Declaration of Signer.
Section 5. Each signer of a nomination petition shall sign but one such petition for each office to be filled, and shall declare therein that he has signed no inconsistent petition; Provided, however, That where there are to be elected two or more persons to the same office, each signer may sign petitions for as many candidates for such office as, and no more than, he could vote for at the succeeding election. He shall also declare therein that he is a qualified elector of the county named in the sheet which he signs, and, in case of nomination is not to be made by the electors of the State at large, of the political district or division therein named in which the nomination is to be made. He shall add his occupation and residence, giving city, borough, or township, with street and number, if any, and shall also add the date of signing. No nomination petition shall be circulated prior to sixty (60) days before the last day on which such petition may be filed, and no signature shall be counted unless it bears date within sixty (60) days of the last day for filing the same.

Affidavit of Qualified Voter.
Section 6. Such nomination petition may be on one or more sheets, and a detachable sheet must be used for signers resident in different counties. Each sheet shall have appended thereto the affidavit of some person—not necessarily a signer, and not necessarily the same person on each sheet—setting forth that the affiant is a qualified elector of the State, or of the political district or division, as the case may be, and that the signers signed with full knowledge of the contents of the petition, that their respective residences are correctly stated therein, that they all reside in the county named in the affidavit, and that each signer is a qualified elector of the county named in the affidavit, and that to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief, signers are qualified electors of the State, or of the political district or division, as the case may be.

(b) Each candidate shall file with his nomination petition his affidavit stating his residence, with street and number, if any, and his post-office address, his election district, the name of the office for which he desires to be a candidate, that he is eligible for such office, and that he will not knowingly violate any election law or any law regulating and limiting nomination and election expenses and prohibiting corrupt practices in connection therewith.

Filing of Petitions.
Section 5. The nomination petitions in the case of candidates for the office of judge shall be filed, at least four weeks prior to the primary, with the Secretary of the Commonwealth. Nomination petitions in all other cases shall be filed, at least three weeks prior to the primary, with the county commissioners of the respective counties.

Nomination petitions of candidates shall be signed:
(a) If for the office of judge to be filled by a vote of the electors of the State at large, at least one hundred qualified electors in each of at least five counties of the State.
(b) If for the office of judge of any court of record other than a court whose judges are elected by a vote of the electors of the State at large, by at least two hundred qualified electors of the county, or judicial district, as the case may be.

(c) If for any other office within the provisions of this act, by at least ten qualified electors of the political district or division within which such nomination is to be made.

Vacancy by Death of Nominee.
Where a nomination petition has been duly filed under the provisions of this act, and thereafter, and before the day of the primary, the candidate named in said petition dies, the original signers of said petition, or the majority of them, may sign and file another petition proposing a new candidate for the same office, at any time prior to the printing of the non-partisan primary ballot. Said petition so filed shall have the same force and effect as the original petition.

of genuine signatures of persons qualified with respect to age, sex, residence, and citizenship to be electors. The invalidity of any sheet of a nomination petition shall not affect the validity of such petition, if a sufficient petition remain after eliminating such invalid sheet.

Application to set aside any nomination petition shall be by petition to the court of common pleas of the county in which such nomination petition has been filed, setting forth specifically the matters objected to, and must be filed within five days after the last day for filing said nomination petition. Upon the presentation of such a petition the court shall make an order fixing a time for hearing, which shall not be later than ten days after the last day for filing said nomination petition, and specifying the time and manner of notice that shall be given to the candidate named in the nomination petition sought to be set aside.

Section 7. The Secretary of the Commonwealth, immediately after the last day fixed for the filing of said petitions with him, shall forward to the county commissioners of each county a correct list of candidates for the various offices, as shown in such petitions, with their respective residences and postoffice addresses as shown in their affidavits, and shall at the same time notify the said candidates by mail that their names have been so certified to said county commissioners.

Section 8. The county commissioners shall have on file in their office, on and after the Wednesday preceding the primary, open to public inspection, forms of the non-partisan primary ballots, with the names and such non-partisan residences as may be required by the provisions of this act printed thereon, which shall be used in each election district within such county.

Primary Ballots.
Section 9. The county commissioners shall prepare, and furnish to the election officers of each election district for use at the primary, one set of official non-partisan primary ballots, of not less than seventy-five for each office, and fifty voters therein, as contained upon the assessor's or registrar's list.

The county commissioners shall also furnish specimen non-partisan primary ballots for the use of electors at the polls, equal in number to one-fourth the whole number of official non-partisan primary ballots, said specimen ballots to be printed on colored paper, and to be of the same size and form of said official ballots.

The official non-partisan primary ballots shall be bound, in books of one hundred each, in the same manner as ballots at elections; and shall be delivered to the officers of election in the same manner as ballots are or hereafter may be delivered, to be delivered to officers of election, for use at elections.

Qualifications of Electors.
Section 10. The qualifications of electors entitled to vote for candidates for offices within the provisions of this act at a primary shall be the same as the qualifications of electors entitled to vote at elections within the election district where the primary is held; except that, with respect to the payment of taxes, it shall be sufficient if an elector shall have paid within two years before the next succeeding election a State or county tax which shall have been assessed at least two months before said election, and paid on or before the day of the primary, and, in cases where personal registration is required, on or before the registration day on which the elector registers. Party membership shall not be necessary to entitle any person to receive and vote a non-partisan primary ballot at any primary at which a candidate for any such office is to be nominated.

Manner of Voting.
Section 11. As soon as a voter is admitted within the hall in the voting room, at the time of a primary, the election officer having charge of the ballots shall detach one of said non-partisan primary ballots from the stub and give it to the voter, but shall first fold it as required by law. If the voter is entitled to receive a party ballot he shall receive it at the same time he receives the non-partisan primary ballot. Not more than one non-partisan primary ballot shall be given to a voter.

Provided, however, That where a voter inadvertently pollia a non-partisan primary ballot, he may obtain another as provided by law, first returning the spoiled ballot, which shall be cancelled, placed in, and returned as in like cases at elections.

The voter shall mark said non-partisan primary ballot and deposit it in the ballot-box at the same time he marks and deposits the party ballot, if any.

The ballot check list and the voting check list at primaries shall have separate columns for party ballots and non-partisan primary ballots, and the officers and clerks keeping such lists shall make separate checks of nominations for each class of ballots as they are issued and deposited.

Section 12. The county commissioners shall make the proper certification of return of votes cast at any primary for the candidates for nomination, for all offices of judge of any court, to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, who shall tabulate the same and shall certify to the county commissioners of the respective counties the result of the computation of the vote, at least thirty days prior to the date of the succeeding election.

Nominations of Primary.
Section 12. The candidates for nomination at any primary for any office within the provisions of this act, to be filled at the succeeding election, equal in number to twice the number of votes cast for such office, shall be elected at the succeeding election, who shall have received at such primary the highest number of votes cast for nomination to the office for which they are candidates (or if the number of all the candidates voted for as aforesaid be not more than twice the number to be elected, then all the candidates), shall be the nominees for such office; and their names, and none other except as hereinafter provided, shall be printed as candidates for such respective offices upon the official ballots which are provided according to law for use at such succeeding election: Provided, That whenever, at any primary, any candidate for nomination to any of the aforesaid offices to which but one person is to be elected at the succeeding election, shall receive a number of votes greater than one-half of the total number of votes cast for such office at such primary, and greater than one-half of the number of ballots cast in the political district or division within which the nomination is to be made, such candidate shall be the sole nominee for such office; and his name, and none other, shall be printed as candidate for such office upon the official ballots for use at such succeeding election.

Section 13. In case of a tie, the candidates receiving the tie vote shall appear and cast lots before the county commissioners or the Secretary of the Commonwealth, as the case may be, on the third Friday after the primary, and the one to whom the lot shall fall, shall be entitled to the nomination. Provided, in any case where the fact of a tie is not authoritatively determined until after the third Wednesday after the day of the primary, the day for appearing and casting lots shall be the second day after the day on which the fact of such tie vote is authoritatively determined. If any candidate or candidates receiving a tie vote fail to appear before twelve o'clock noon on said day, the county commissioners or the Secretary of the Commonwealth, as the case may be, shall cast lots for him or them. For the purpose of casting lots any candidate may appear in person, or by proxy appointed in writing.

Vacancy After Primary.
Section 14. If after any primary and before the succeeding election any candidate nominated pursuant to the provisions of this act shall die or shall by virtue of any present or future disability be unable to perform the duties of his office, the fact of a vacancy shall be printed on the ballot for the election, a vacancy shall be deemed to exist, when shall be filled by the otherwise un-nominated and not so disqualified candidate for the same office next in rank with respect to the number of votes received at such primary.

If after any primary and before the succeeding election there should not be any candidate who is nominated, and entitled to have his name printed on the ballot for any office within the provisions of this act, and which is to be filled at the succeeding election, or not enough of such candidates for any such office to equal the number of persons to be elected thereto at the succeeding election, other candidates may be nominated for such office, with the same effect as though nominated at the primary, by the filing of nomination petitions on behalf of and affidavits by such candidates, in the manner and form and according to the directions hereinafter provided in sections four and five of this act with respect to getting the name of a candidate for such office printed upon the ballot for the primary, at any time before four o'clock post meridian of the Friday next succeeding the last day fixed for filing nomination petitions for the office for which he is a candidate, withdraw his name as a candidate, by request in writing signed by him and acknowledged before any officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments, and filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth if such candidate's nomination petition was filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and, in all other cases, with the county commissioners.

Section 17. Any candidate for nomination to be voted for at a primary, under this act, may at any time before four o'clock post meridian of the Friday next succeeding the last day fixed for filing nomination petitions for the office for which he is a candidate, withdraw his name as a candidate, by request in writing signed by him and acknowledged before any officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments, and filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth if such candidate's nomination petition was filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and, in all other cases, with the county commissioners.

the office a written statement of the name, residence, and postoffice address of the candidate therein named, as shown in his affidavit, as well as the name of the office for which he is a candidate; and shall at the same time notify the said candidate, by mail, that his name has been so certified to the county commissioners. As soon as any such substituted or additional candidate shall have been duly nominated as herein provided, his name shall be used by the proper officers as though he had been nominated at the primary, so far as time will allow, and in case such after-primary nomination be filed with or transmitted to the county commissioners after the ballots have been printed, the said commissioners shall prepare and distribute, with the ballots, suitable slips of paper bearing the substituted or added name, together with the title of the office, and having adhesive paste upon the reverse side, which shall be offered to each voter with the regular ballot, and may be affixed thereto.

Filling of Vacancies.
Section 15. Whenever an office within the provisions of this act is to be filled at a regular or special election, because of the prior happening of a vacancy in such office, nominations of candidates for such office for such election shall be made as follows:

If such vacancy is to be filled at a regular election, or at a special election to be held at the same time as a regular election, and if such vacancy happened not less than thirty days prior to the last day for filing nomination petitions for the office for the regular primary antecedent to such election, nominations shall be made at the primary preceding such election, in the same manner that candidates for the same office are nominated, under the provisions of this act, when there has been no antecedent vacancy occasioning the election.

In all other cases within the purview of this section, candidates for such office shall be nominated, with the same effect, as though nominated at a primary, by the filing of nomination petitions on behalf of and affidavits by such candidates, in the manner and form and according to the directions hereinafter provided in sections four and five of this act with respect to getting the name of a candidate for such office printed upon the ballot for the primary, varied in so far as may be necessary to fit the different purposes. Any number of candidates may be so nominated. Such nomination petitions and affidavits shall be filed the same length of time prior to the election as corresponding nomination petitions are required to be filed before a primary, and shall be filed in the same office, and the same proceedings shall be had with respect thereto, with relation to the election, as herein provided with respect to a primary. Provided, however, Said nomination petitions shall not be deemed to be filed too late if filed within ten days after such vacancy happened.

Official Ballot.
Section 16. At the head of every official ballot furnished for an election at which any candidate for any office within the provisions of this act is to be voted for, there shall be printed, immediately after the instructions now by law required to be printed thereon, the following additional instructions in the same style and size of type as to wit: A CROSS (X) IN THE PARTY SQUARE IS THE FIRST COLUMN DOES NOT CARRY A VOTE FOR ANY JUDGE OR FOR (HERE INSERT NAMES OF ANY OTHER OFFICES FOR WHICH CANDIDATES HAVE BEEN NOMINATED UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THIS ACT.) TO VOTE FOR JUDGE OR ANY CITY OFFICE MARK A CROSS (X) OPPOSITE THE NAME OF THE CANDIDATE DESIRED.

Non-Partisan Groups of Candidates.
The group of candidates for the office of the several offices within the provisions of this act shall be printed on the ballot at the head of the second column, and shall be enclosed in a solid border not less than one-sixteenth of an inch in width, and shall be headed with the following words, printed in bold-face type not less than sixteen point in size: JUDICIAL, AND CITY TICKET—NON-PARTISAN. Said instructions shall vary with the names of the offices to be filled may require.

The names of the candidates nominated as provided by this act shall be printed on the ballot in alphabetical order, under the titles of the respective offices, and without any party name or appellation, and the names of no other candidates for such offices shall be printed on said ballots.

At the right of the name of each candidate shall be a square for the insertion of a cross mark, and following the list of candidates for each different office to be filled (or under the name of the office itself, if there are no candidates) shall be left blank spaces—all as required by law.

Section 17. Any candidate for nomination to be voted for at a primary, under this act, may at any time before four o'clock post meridian of the Friday next succeeding the last day fixed for filing nomination petitions for the office for which he is a candidate, withdraw his name as a candidate, by request in writing signed by him and acknowledged before any officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments, and filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth if such candidate's nomination petition was filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and, in all other cases, with the county commissioners.

Will Conduct a Question Box Here Chautauqua Week

HON. JOSEPH W. FOLK OF MISSOURI.

ONE of the features of Folk day at our Chautauqua will be the question box which former Governor Folk will conduct at the close of his lecture. Mr. Folk has for years made a study of governmental problems, and he is qualified by official experience, as well as by research to give the information on these questions that many people so much desire. Any one may place questions in the question box regarding any governmental matter or national problem which they would wish to hear him discuss.

Filing such requests.

No candidate for any office within the provisions of this act, nominated at or after a primary, may withdraw his name as candidate for election.

Watchers.
Section 18. Each candidate for any office within the provisions of this act shall be entitled to appoint one watcher or at the election in each election district, precinct, or division in which such candidate is to be voted for, who shall be a qualified elector of the district, precinct, or division in which he is authorized to act as such watcher, and who shall serve without compensation. Each watcher shall be provided with a certificate from the county commissioners, stating his name, the district in which he is authorized to act, and the name of the candidate appointing him; and shall have the right to be present in the voting room, outside of the enclosed space, during the time that the ballots are cast and counted, and the returns made out and signed by the election officers, and may keep poll-books and challenge lists. Watchers shall be required to show their certificates when requested to do so.

If any election officers officiating at any election shall refuse to permit a watcher appointed under the provisions of this act to be present as herein provided, such officer of officers shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars, or to undergo imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

ANOTHER PARCEL POST USE.

C. O. D. Plan Ads Merchant to Collect From Unwary Debtors.

A Kansas merchant has found a new use for the parcel post. When the C. O. D. feature went into effect, on July 1, he hit upon an idea to collect a number of small accounts which he had been carrying for some time and which had caused considerable loss during a period of several years.

A number of small boxes were obtained and filled with waste paper and on the top was placed a receipted bill for the proper amount. A five cent stamp was required for each box, and the C. O. D. fee was 10 cents for each package. The next day the returns began to come in, and in nearly every case the debtor paid the amount, supposing that the package contained something of value, but of course, not being permitted to confirm this suspicion before opening it.

Films For Summer Use.
If amateur photographers before setting off on vacation will lay in a supply of films that have been put up especially for "export" they will have fewer disappointments when they gaze upon the result of their summer snap-shooting after the developing is finished. These export films are packed in tin boxes to withstand a tropical climate, and they will be found particularly valuable when one is going to a coast resort.

A man observing the flight of an airplane for the first time loses his sense of strangeness inside of a few minutes; and yet flying has been since the days of Icarus considered one of the impossible achievements. So the general public of Manhattan were becoming accustomed to revelations of form in the affairs of the physical world. The frivolous majority, having discovered nothing to be apprehended from the phenomena save a few hours' helplessness of a sort, and much to be gained through the savor of novelty, were inclined to an amused or irritated attitude, depending on the extent to which its occupations were interfered with. The minority took to religious meditation and interpretation.

Darrow's exit, and that of his companions, were greeted uproariously. "Please go away an' let me sleep!" sang one, at the blinking men. "Here's another!" shrieked a gamin. "Get up! The porter wants to make up your berth!" Several of the crowd, peering the u. arrival of the police to clear the corridor, had ventured through the wide portals, and were experimenting with this strange palpable quality of darkness. One or two popped inside the curtain, but emerged quickly, looking a little scared.

A bright youth made the discovery that if one lighted a match and stepped within the blackness, the match was immediately extinguished, but that upon emerging into daylight the flame came up again. Some one happened along with a plumber's gasoline torch. Immediately this was lighted and the experiment repeated. The bearer of the torch, astonished at the instant extinguishment of the flame, felt with his hand to see what could be the matter. Instantly he uttered a yelp of pain, and leaped outside, displaying a badly burned palm.

"There wasn't no flame; I saw it!" he explained excitedly, "but she burned, just the same!" He rushed about from one to another displaying his injured palm to whoever would look. Darrow paid little attention to this "burning" crowd. He held in his hand a crumpled paper he held in his hand; then plunged back again into the blackness.

Jack Warford and Hallowell, left together, hesitated uncertainly. "He'll be back," the reporter decided finally, "and he's the man to do it."

While waiting, he proceeded to pick up what information he could from the bystanders. It seemed that the first intimation of anything wrong was followed very shortly by the emergence of McCarthy, disheveled, halless, staring, gasping. The boss had stumbled into the street, hesitated, then started south on a run. Before any one could stop him, he turned a corner and disappeared. The excitement at the Atlas Building had distracted attention from him. Nobody wondered at his getting rattled and running away. The few tenants remaining in the building had stumbled forth, vowing never to return to such a—assorted adjectives—building. That was all there seemed to be to say.

In the meantime the crowd had increased from a few hundred to thousands. Police appeared. The watch dogs were cleared of all but a few. Among these were Hallowell and Jack Warford; the former as a reporter, the latter as the reporter's companion. Doctor Knox and Professor Eldridge arrived shortly. After a time Darrow reappeared, sauntering quite calmly from the pall of darkness, as though emerging from behind a velvet curtain.

CHAPTER XII.

The Unknown.

It now became necessary to glance a passing at the personal characteristics of Professor Eldridge. This man was in about his fortieth year, tall, spare, keenly intellectual in countenance, cool, possessed of an absolute reliance on the powers of science, beyond which his mental processes did not stray. His manner was distinguished by a stiff unbending formality; his expression by a glacial coldness of steel-gray eyes and a straight-line compression of thin lips; his dress by a precise and unvarying formalism, and his speech by a curious polysyllabic stiffness.

This latter idiosyncrasy would in another have seemed either priggish or facetiously intended. With Professor Eldridge it was merely a natural method of speech. Withal, his scientific attainments were not only undoubted, but so considerable as to have won for him against many odds the reputation of a great scientist. His specialty, if such it might be called, was scientific diagnosis. The exactness of scientific laws was so admirably duplicated by the exactitudes of his mind that he seemed able, by a bloodless and mechanical sympathy, to penetrate to the most obscure causes of the strangest events. It might be added that practically his only social ties were those with the Warfords, and that the only woman with whom he ever entered into conversation was Helen. At sight of him Percy Darrow's lounging lack became accentuated to exaggeration.

"Hello! Prof!" he drawled. "On the job, I see. Good morning, Doctor," he greeted Knox. "What do you make of it?"

"I make of it that the Atlas Building will shortly be without tenants," replied the doctor; "me, for one."

Eldridge surveyed Darrow coldly through the glittering lenses of his glasses.

"The cause of these extraordinary phenomena is self-evident," he stated. "You mean their nature, not their cause," replied Darrow. "In nature, they refer back to the interference with etheric and molecular vibrations. That," he added, "is a fact that every boy in the grammar-school physics class has figured out for himself. The cause is a different matter."

"I stand corrected," said Eldridge. "Such lapses in accuracy of statement are not at all with me, but may be considered as concomitant with unusual circumstances."

"Right-o!" agreed Darrow cheerfully. "Well, what about the cause?"

"That I will determine when I am satisfied that all the elements of the problem are in my hands."

"Right-o!" repeated Darrow. "Well, I'll bet you a new hat I'll land the cause before you do. Be a sport!"

"I never indulge in wagers," replied Eldridge.

"Well," said Darrow to Jack and Hallowell, "come on!"

Without waiting to see if he was followed, the young man again plunged into the black and clinging darkness. "Get hold of my coat," his voice came to the others. "We're going to climb."

Accordingly they climbed, in silence, up many flights of stairs, through the gloomy darkness. At last Darrow halted, turned sharply to the left, fumbled for a door, and entered a room.

"Simmons!" he said.

"Here!" came a voice.

"I thought you'd be on the job," said Darrow, with satisfaction. "How's your instrument? Going, eh? We are in the wireless offices," he told the others. "Sit down, if you can find chairs. We'll wait until the sun is shining brightly, love, before we really try to get down to business. In the meantime—"

"In the meantime," repeated both Jack and Hallowell, in a breath. "Go on, my son," conceded the latter. "I bet we have the same idea."

"Well, I was going to say that I'm not in the grammar-school physics class, and I want to know what you mean by your remark to Eldridge," said Jack.

"That's my trouble," said Hallowell. "It's simple enough," began Darrow. "We have had, first, a failure of all electricity; second, a failure of all sound; third, a failure of all light. The logical mind would therefore examine these things to see what they have in common. The answer simply jumps at you: Vibration. Electricity and light are vibrations in ether; sound is vibration in air or some solid. Therefore, whatever could absolutely stop vibration would necessarily stop electricity, light and sound."

"But," objected Jack, "if vibration were absolutely stopped, why wouldn't they all three be blotted out at once?"

"Because," explained Darrow, "the vibrations making these three phenomena are different in character. Sound is made by horizontal waves, for example, while electricity and light are made by transverse waves. Furthermore, the waves producing electricity and light differ in length. Now, it is conceivable that a condition which would interfere with horizontal waves would not interfere with transverse waves; or that a condition which would absolutely deaden waves two hundred and seventy ten-millionths of an inch long would have absolutely no effect on those one hundred and fifty-five ten-millionths of an inch long. Am I clear?"

"Sure!" came the voices of his audience.

"That much Eldridge and any other man trained in elementary science already knows. It is no secret."

"It hasn't been published," observed Hallowell grimly.

"Well, go to it! The task of the independent investigator, of which we are some, is now to discover, first, what are those conditions, and second, what causes them. With the exception of Mr. Hallowell, we all know what this guiding power is."

"Don't get it," growled Simmons. "Now, look here, Simmons, you are very loyal to McCarthy, for whatever reason, but your loyalty is misplaced. For one thing, your man has disappeared, and will not return. That last message scared him out. For another thing, we've got to need you in our campaign."

"I'm from Copenhagen; you got to show me," said Simmons.

Darrow laughed softly.

"Well, show you all right," said he. He sketched briefly for Hallowell's benefit the reasoning already followed out, and which it is therefore unnecessary to repeat here. "So now," he concluded, "we will consider this hypothesis: that these phenomena are caused by one man in control of a force capable of deadening vibrations in ether and solids within certain definite limits."

"Why do you limit it?" cried Hallowell.

"Because we have had but one manifestation at a time. If this Unknown were out really to frighten—which seems to be his intention—it would be much more effective to visit us with absolute darkness and absolute silence combined. That would be really terrifying. He has not done so. Therefore, I conclude that his power is limited in applicability."

"Isn't that a little doubtful?" spoke up Jack.

"Of course," said Darrow cheerfully. "That's where we're going to win out on this sporting proposition with our dear Brother Eldridge. He won't accept any hypothesis unless it is absolutely corroborated. We will."

"I think you underestimate Eldridge," spoke up Hallowell. "He's the only original think-tank in a village of horse troughs."

"I don't underestimate him one bit," countered Darrow; "but we have a head start on him with our reasoning; that's all. He's absolutely sure to come to the conclusions I have just detailed, only he'll get there a little more slowly. That's why I want you to do this thing, Hallowell."

"How's that?"

"We'll publish everything up to Gata and cut the ground from under him."

"What's your special grudge on Eldridge, anyway?" asked Jack.

"I like to worry him," replied Percy Darrow non-committally.

At that moment the darkness disappeared as though some one had turned a switch. The reporter, the operator and the scientist's young assistant moved involuntarily as though dodging, and blinked. Darrow shaded his eyes with one hand and proceeded as though nothing had happened.

"Here go the exclusive points of your story," he said to Hallowell, handing a sheet of yellow wireless forms. "I got them in McCarthy's office. They are messages from the unknown wielder of the mysterious power to his enemy, the political boss. There will be plenty who will conclude these messages to be the result of fanaticism, after the fact; that is to say, they will conclude some wireless amateur has taken advantage of natural phenomena and by claiming himself the author of them, has attempted to use them again his enemy. Of course, the answer to that is that if the Unknown—let's call him Monsieur X—did not cause these strange things, he at least knew enough about them to predict them accurately."

"You just leave that to me," hummed Hallowell under his breath. The reporter had been glancing over the wireless forms, and his eyes were shining with delight.

"Here is the last one," said Darrow, producing a crumpled yellow paper from his pocket. "I went back after it."

"McCarthy's! My patience is at an end. Your last warning will be sent you at six o'clock. If you don't show up, I'll send you a message. You are a stubborn and self-necked fellow, but I am sure you will be glad to see me."

"That bluffed him out," said Darrow, "and he don't blame him. Now, Simmons," said he, turning to the operator, who had sat in utter silence, "how about it? Are you with us, or against us?"

"How do you mean?" demanded Simmons.

"This," said Darrow sharply. "The time has passed for concealment. Every message through the ether must now reach the public. We must send messages back. The case is out of private hands; it has become important to the people. Will you agree on your honor faithfully to transmit?"

"He leaned forward, his indolent frame startlingly tense. 'Are you afraid of McCarthy?'"

"He's been good to me—it's a family matter," answered the operator. "The time has passed for concealment. Every message through the ether must now reach the public. We must send messages back. The case is out of private hands; it has become important to the people. Will you agree on your honor faithfully to transmit?"

"I hadn't thought of that. Of course I'm with you."

"I thought you would be," drawled Percy Darrow slowly. "If you hadn't decided to be, I'd have had another man put in your place. Hadn't thought of that, either, had you?"

"No, sir," replied Simmons.

"Well, I prefer you. It's no job for a quitter, and I believe you'll stick."

"I'll stick," repeated Simmons.

"Well, to work," said Darrow, lighting the cigarette he had been playing with. "Send this out, and see if you can reach Monsieur X."

"Of," he dictated slowly. "Do you get this? Repeat that until you get a reply."

Without comment the operator turned to his key. The long ripping crash of the wireless sender followed the movements of his fingers.

"I got his 'I-I,'" he said, after a moment. "It's almighty faint."

"McCarthy has disappeared. Can no longer reach him with your messages," he merely answers "I-I" observed the operator.

"By the way," asked Darrow, "what is your shift, anyway? Weren't you on at night when this thing began?"

"I'm still on at night; but Mr. McCarthy sent me a message, and asked me to stay on all this morning as a personal favor to him."

"Yes, sir."

"Well, tell Monsieur X that fact, put yourself at his disposal, and tell him he'd better get all his messages to you rather than to the other operators here."

"All right."

"There's your story," said Darrow to Hallowell. "It's in those messages. The scientific aspect will probably be done by somebody for the evening papers. You better concentrate on Monsieur X's connection with McCarthy."

"Say, my friend," said Hallowell earnestly, "do you think I'm a reporter for the Scientific American or a newspaper?"

All three rose. The operator was busy cranking away at his Leyden jars. "What next?" asked Jack.

"That depends on two things."

"Whether or not McCarthy takes the Celtic," interposed Hallowell quickly.

"And whether Monsieur X will be satisfied with his mere disappearance, if he does not take the Celtic," supplemented Darrow. "In any case, we've got to find him. He's unbalanced; he possesses an immense and disconcerting and dangerous power; he is becoming possessed of a modicum of grandeur. You remember the phrasing of his last message? 'I am your lord and master, and my wrath shall be visited on you. Begone!' That is the language of exaltation. Exaltation is not far short of irresponsibility."

"What possible clue—" began Jack Warford, blankly.

"When a man is somewhere out in the ether there is no clue," replied Darrow.

"Then how on earth can you hope to find him?"

"By the exercise of pure reason," said Darrow calmly.

CHAPTER XIII.

Darrow's Challenge.

With a final warning to Simmons as to the dissemination of any information without consulting him, Darrow left the room. Hallowell listened to this advice with unmixed satisfaction; the afternoon papers would not be able to get at his source of information. The reporter felt a slight wonder as to how Darrow had managed his ascendancy over the operator. An inquiry as to that met with a shake of the head.

"I may have to ask your help in that later," was his only reply.

At the corner, after pushing through a curious crowd, the men separated. Hallowell started for the wharf; Jack Warford for home—at Darrow's request.

"Here Are the Exclusive Points of Your Story."

The scientist returned to his own apartments, where he locked himself in and sat for two hours cross-legged on a divan, staring straight ahead of him, doing nothing. At the end of that time he cautiously stretched his legs, sighed, rose, and looked into the mirror.

"I guess you're hungry," he remarked to the image therein.

It was now near mid-afternoon. Percy Darrow wandered out, ate a leisurely meal at the nearest restaurant, and sauntered up the avenue. He paused at a news stand to buy an afternoon paper, glanced at the headlines and a portion of the text, and smiled sweetly to himself. Then he took himself by means of a bus to the Warford residence.

Helen was at home, and in the library. With her was Professor Eldridge. The men greeted each other formally. After a moment of general conversation Darrow produced the newspaper.

"I see you have your theories in print," he drawled. "Very interesting. I didn't know you'd undertaken grammar-school physics instruction."

Universal Peace Advocates Assemble At The Hague to Open Peace Palace

THE HAGUE, August 18.—Peace advocates from all parts of the world assembled here for the twentieth universal peace congress, scheduled to take place at the new peace palace here August 18-23, inclusive. Since 1849 this congress has met yearly in one of the larger towns of Europe and America. Among the later congresses, those of 1905 at Lucerne, of 1906 at Milan, of 1907 in London and of 1910 at Stockholm may be cited as having been especially successful as well with regard to the work of the congress itself as to the kind of hospitality with which the members were received. From the moment that the opening of the peace palace was fixed for 1913, a year in which the Dutch are making their country as attractive as possible, from that moment the idea took root that this twentieth universal peace congress in 1913 should be held at The Hague. The peace palace is the embodiment of the idea which gave birth to the peace congresses, and it is the conviction that The Hague is the kind of place in which the members of the congress should be received. COOKERS DROP FIRST CONTEST OF SERIES TO UNIONTOWN NINE

Have Game Won Until Seventh When Guest Grows Weak.

MANAGER SILCOX TO RESCUE

Score is 9 to 7 With Visitors on Long End; Two More Games Will Occur Before Outcome of Three Game Series is Decided; Play Loose

Uniontown won the first of the three game series from the Cooks in the clash for a purse of $200 Saturday afternoon at Fayette Field, score 9 to 7. The contest was one of the most lively played here this season, ten errors being registered. A notable crowd was in attendance.

After having won the lead in the early innings, the Cooks went in the old in the seventh with a two run lead, and guest got rockers. The first end up, Cook got a hit, and Tippen lined out a two-bagger, bringing the runner home. Bear led out to Kintner, but Kintner lined out for a strike, sending Tippen across the plate. Harding got a hit, and Kintner scored the third run during the inning on Fisher's safety. Boyer and Condemner struck out, ending the inning. It was in the seventh that Silcox entered the fray, striking out the last man up.

During the remainder of the contest, Connelville didn't have a chance to score. It was a case of one, two, three out in the next three innings.

The visitors, on the other hand, scored their ninth run in the eighth inning.

There were a number of good plays made during the contest, but the glaring errors of players on both sides counterbalanced them. Bales' work at short and Kerfoot's work on rat were the two bright spots of an otherwise mediocre exhibition.

YOUR OWN HOME.

Buy It or Build It and Pay For It Like Rent.

We will not say that anybody who can pay rent can pay for a home. It takes a certain amount of will power and perseverance to accomplish anything and many people, lacking those qualities will go on paying rent all their lives. But we will say that any man who has the necessary standing in his make up can easily pay for a home with the aid of the Young Trust Company, which lends the money to build or buy when you yourself have saved a certain sum. While you are saving "The Young" pays you 4% on your savings and the money it loans you to buy or build can be paid back in monthly installments like rent. Cookery Points

For the Picnic Lunch.

Puff pastry is a delicious little dainty to include in the picnic luncheon menu. To make puff paste take a pound of flour and sift it well and stir in a pinch of salt, the beaten yolk of an egg and sufficient ice cold water to make a stiff paste. As flour varies so much in the quantity of water that it will take up, it is almost impossible to tell how much will be required. Consequently a little should be added at a time till the dough is mixed.

Take some good fresh butter and wash it in water and then wrap in a cloth and lay it in the ice chest, if there is one handy; if not, place on the floor of the pantry for an hour. Roll out the dough and place the butter in a lump in the center of the dough and fold the sides over it. Set away in a cold place for another hour. Then roll it out into a long strip. Fold this into three by turning in the ends. Keep the dough quite cold and continue this process six times. Between the third and fifth rollings out lay the dough in a cold place for an hour before proceeding. Then it is ready to bake. Before placing in the oven the top of the pastry should be brushed over either with milk or the beaten yolk of an egg. The latter gives the pastry a rich yellow tint, which, however, is not always liked. Bake in a quick oven and take out as soon as cooked and nicely browned. Pastry should be cooled in a hot or warm room, as it keeps its crispness better.

To make sweet fillings for any of the molds either stew the fruit until quite thick, using only just sufficient water, or else mash or slice the fresh fruit, sweeten to taste and fill the molds. Mash with whipped cream or serve plain. These pies are delicious, and as they are served cold are so easy to prepare once the cases are made. The smaller cases can be filled with sweets or savories as liked. Vegetables served in cases is a nice way of using up cold vegetables. They may be used either hot or cold.

These cases are delightfully easy things to take to a picnic. Store the cases in a tin box and take the filling in jars. There will be no appalling mixture of sweets and meats, for until the cases are filled their contents are repelling in tightly corked or stoppered with necked jars. A delicious filling for the cases and much liked at river lunches is made with a tin of lobster and cream. Whip a teaspoonful of cream to a stiff froth and cut open the lobster tin and mince all the flesh finely. Squeeze a few drops of lemon juice over and sprinkle with paprika pepper and any flavoring liked. Just before filling the cases stir the cream and lobster together and fill the cases. Stand on some fresh lettuce leaves, and there you are!

Any nice cream filling may be made of most finely minced and nicely flavored meat placed in a pan with a sprinkle of flour and a tablespoonful of good gravy. Simmer till stiff, take off the fire and add two tablespoonfuls of cream when the meat is almost cold.

Summer Salads.
Prime requirements of the salad are lightness and crispness. Heavy garnishes are to be avoided at all times but particularly in the summer.

Only the white leaves of the lettuce should be used, and these or the cress should be allowed to stand in the ice water for an hour before serving. The salad dressing should never be put on the lettuce or cress, or, for that matter, on the salad mixture, until just before the salad is wanted at the table. When it is to be prepared the green salad should be thoroughly dried in a napkin, and the salad dish should be as cold as possible.

Nests of lettuce leaves, made of four leaves with the stem ends laid overlapping each other, or a deft arrangement of cress in the same shape, placed carefully on a broad, dainty dish and filled with the salad mixture, is easily served and effective in appearance.

If mayonnaise or boiled dressings are used, enough should be saved, after mixing the ingredients, to cover the top. Vegetables salads are pretty decorated with a border of finely shredded red pepper or lettuce or both interlaced or with fine strips of the white of boiled eggs.

Nasturtium blossoms, which have a pleasant, spicy flavor, are pretty as a decoration and add to the tastiness. If green or red is wanted in the dressing, spinach green, bits of green pepper or finely chopped parsley may be used for the former and powdered dried lobster coral or beet juice for the latter.

New Gold Field in Mexico.
A gold field of exceptional richness has been discovered in the southern part of the province of Katanga, in the Belgian Congo, according to dispatches just received in Antwerp.

Some of the samples are declared to yield an ounce of gold to the ton.

This year's congress will be under the high patronage of his royal highness, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, Duke of Mecklenburg.
